The Olympics, the greatest regular event in the sports world, not only of Japan but also of the rest of the world ended peacefully. We, the general public, felt the significance of sport and the conciseness of amateur sports. Players seemed to enjoy body and soul. It is one of the maximum moments for the human race. By the way, the traditional Keio-Waseda baseball match, put off because of the Olympic Games is about to be played. It's a peak in amateur baseball. Let's cheer the players of our Alma Mater this autumn.

World Famous Three Big Student Sports

Before or since, the Baseball Game between Keio and Waseda, Oxford-Cambridge Boat Race and American Football Match of Yale-Harvard have been admitted as World Famous Three Big Student Sports. These three have something common with each other, that is, they are student sports, in which the spirit of amateurism has its life most vividly. And they are not only the matches between each two universities but also the games known to almost all people in those country and have mood like festival with glorification and nostalgia of the bloom of youth. Now we introduce you those three big games.

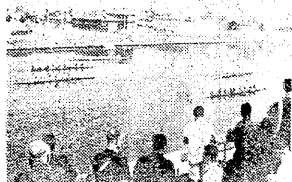

Oxford-Cambridge Boat Race

(Cambridge and Oxford Boat Race)

THE BOAT RACE IN TOKYO OLYMPIC GAMES was held under the autumn beautiful blue sky at the Toda Course in Saitama Pref. from October, 11th to 15th in several types of boat race. In eight-oared boat race, the most popular of them, the final match was held on 15th. The dead heat was disputed between American Vesper Boat Club and German Rotzberg Club in the gathering twilight and this dramatic scene will remain for ever in the Olympic History.

At last America became the winner of this game, but to our regret we could not see the traditional boat team of England take an active part in this Olympic Games. It is said that England didn't send the boat team because they could not have a satisfactory ability suitable for their tradition. It tells us how high a pride they have to the boat race.

Boat Race in Tokyo Olympics.

The Boat Race in England

Next to the Derby, rowing is one of the most popular sports in England. Several kinds of boat-race are held every year among universities or some other boat clubs on the Thames and the Dee; the Henley Regatta and Oxford & Cambridge Boat Race are the most famous and biggest ones. Almost of these races are held in Spring. For example, the Henley Regatta is held 40 miles up stream from London at Henley in early June by rowing clubs from all over baseball matches do in Japan. Someone said, "It is the annual Iliad of England." When the race was over, students of both of the universities have a party together in London at night.

The History ...

It has been going on for well over a hundred years, ever since that day in 1829 when the gentlemen of the Cambridge University Boat Club sent a challenge to the gentlemen of Oxford to row a match at or near London during the ensuing Easter vacation. This first race was held at Henley on 10th of June before a crowd of 20,000 and was won by Oxford.

The crowd who cheer on Oxford wear Dark Blue Ribbons and those who cheer on Cambridge wear Light Blue Ribbons, you know. This tradition was originated with the Boat Race. The Light Blue colour of Cambridge made its appearance in 1836. In 1829 the Oxford crews appeared in dark-blue striped jersey uniform and Cambridge wore pink sashes. In 1836 Cambridge dressed in white, but just before the race started a gentleman of Christ's fastened a piece of blue ribbon to the bows of the Cambridge Boat. This is the original of Cambridge Light Blue.

Today that fast contest and many that followed, would appear strange indeed. Each race takes its place in this long line of tradition. Certain external features have changed with the passage of time, but in essence the Boat Race remains the same, and tends to follow the same pattern year after year.

The total result till recently—

Cambridge is superior to Oxford in the result in spite of the Oxford victory at the first occasion. Oxford had an unbeaten series of nine victories from 1861 to 1869, and another run of nine between 1890 and 1898. Since 1920 Cambridge has won 27 times to Oxford's 8 and holds the record for sequence with 13 victories between 1924 and 1936.

The Training—hard training in a north wind

We are apt to take the Boat Race for granted, but it is a mistake, because the race is so unique and severe that the champions must have strong physique and durability. So intensive training is needed before the crews reach the tideway.

They are coached and take practice several months before. Three months is a long time for anyone to maintain rigid physical discipline. In practice outings the crews row over a thousand miles. The conditions on the Cam. can be Arctic. In the east wind, with knife-edge or a freezing-point snowfall they must train. Yes, training for the Boat Race is a spartan business.

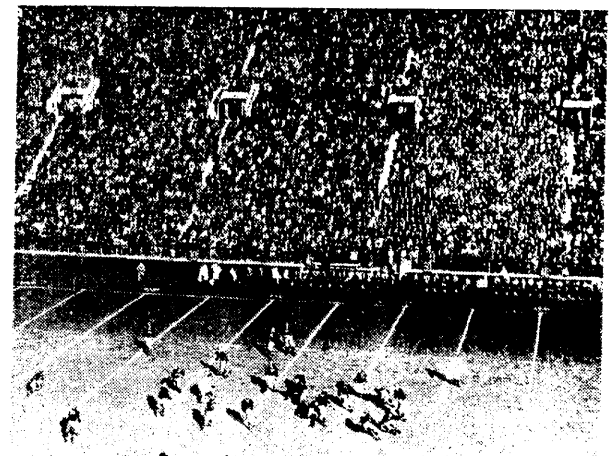

Yale-Harvard Football Game

HARVARD AND YALE, TWO IVY LEAGUE UNIVERSITIES AMERICA have played football since 1875. Although its importance among college sports has dwindled from its early strength, the Game still has its gay events. (The football game between Harvard and Yale is simply called The Game.) The Game is most popular among the people in and around Boston because of its history.

The season of college football is from September to November. "The Game" is played one year at the Harvard ground, the next at the Yale ground on a weekend in November. The week beforehand is a week of preparation at Harvard. Now we talk mainly about Harvard. Whenever The Game is played at representatives of the tailoring establishments in New Haven, where Yale is, entrain for Cambridge, where Harvard is, to see what the young gentlemen are wearing.

Excitement is enhanced by telephone call from news reporters to the manager, and by preceding entertainments. Soccer, touch football and freshman football are played on the preceding day. Parties are thrown the night before, however it is tradition that no one talks about The Game, even through The Game is foremost in every one's mind. The band gathers in front of the University Hall for the football rally. The Harvard band marches in a mass formation, playing, "The Thousand Men of Harvard." The Harvard and Yale glee club give a joint concert. This time there are no great riots in the Yard. Some may want a riot but on this occasion Harvard students want to watch a football game and not a student demonstration.

That day, according to the talk of Assistant Professor Sho-

to Fujieda who had been in Harvard University and who is now in Keio Business School, people come to see The Game by car from far away. A great number of cars flood around the stadium and the policemen are busy controlling the traffic. The dignitaries in that city, Boston, also come to see it. When Mr. Fujieda watched The Game it was announced that the late President Kennedy to see The Game. (But actually he could not.) The Game is a splendid festival not only for the students of the two universities but also for the citizens.

The national anthem of the U.S.A. is played before the Games, and before the main event, The Game, a croquet game played before the games, and before between Lampoon and The Yale Record, which are humor magazine clubs of each university. The program is all about croquet; a small note announced: "Festivities will be followed by a football match between Yale and Harvard Universities."

Entertainment is provided by school bands. They are beautiful and colorful, providing a center of "rooting" with the baton girl for instance. They have no special cheer leaders among the audience, but they cheer their favorite team very loud and long. There is a cry of "Restrain them, Harvard! Impede their forward progress!" In the excitement some times an unexpected things happen like, the girl who stole into the Yale squad surrounding a Harvard quarterback who was to score in the next play. The police escorted her to the sidelines. When the first half has ended, the bands of the two universities are parading on the ground, while playing marches, alternately. It is so colorful and beautiful that spectators in the stand are amused at this sight.

But there is Harvard indifference. Harvard is the intellectual. No. 1 university in America. Of course there are also many things to do and many areas of interest. There is no need to get fired up about football, as someone said, "Surely Harvard and Yale are not strong." Nevertheless this traditional game is an amusement to the people in U.S.A.

How Should Be K-W Game?

THE FIRST KEIO-WASEDA BASEBALL GAME, was held in 1963. It has become one of the most traditional and famous games in the history of amateur sports in Japan. Many unforgettable stories and players have been produced ever since its birth. Recently the fan of professional baseball games has increased in number, and amateur sports are losing popularity. However K-W game is still admitted to be the most popular student baseball game and have many fans. Almost all students of both universities are said to feel actually that they are the students of Keio or Waseda Univ. and feel worth living, when they cheer up their teams at Jingu Stadium.

How should be K-W game? This time we asked some persons concerned with K-W baseball game about this.

Keio's Manager Mr. Maeda

Keio's manager Mr. Maeda says, "It is very difficult to elevate one's character. It is impossible for us to make ourselves useful men in the world when we stick to one thing. To all students, studying is most important and it is their privileges to enrich their knowledge by playing sports, being active in every club, and by pursuing hobbies, after studying. We do this by playing baseball.

Speaking of K-W match, it is only one of the game of Tokyo Big Six Univ. Baseball League. But the difference between K-W game and others is that the former has been given special treatment traditionally. At the beginning of the League we take aim at gaining the championship and winning K-W game. I hope that we can make K-W match as a game aiming at the championship and a model game

How Should Be K-W Game?

(Continued from Page 2) it. By doing this they make up their characters. By playing sports we can get something which we can not gain by studying.

Waseda's manager Mr. Ishii says, "I think it is the most important thing that each player is always intent on team play without playing for the benefit of himself, on the subject of the student baseball. And in relation to K-W baseball games, I eagerly wish that Keio and Waseda team should be not only strong, but also a model of others. Namely the two teams are admitted as a representative of student baseball. If any one of the two comes weak, I'm afraid it means the decline of Big Six Univ. Baseball League."

And he added, "In the spring season, fortunately we won the victory. This is because of a fine team work by upper class students. I am very thankful for every Waseda's member."

Then we asked Mr. Fujita, pitcher and pitching coach (graduate of Keio Univ.) and Mr. Hirooka-shortstop (graduate of Waseda Univ.) of most popular professional baseball team, "The Yomiuri Giants" about K-W game.

Mr. Fujita says, "During my university life we never won the championship and I was called an 'Ace of Tragedy'. But I never regret that, because I did my best in my way. And I have good memories in K-W match and I'll never forget them. I think I am happy to have studied and gained friends at Keio Univ. I am deeply impressed to try to practice what I have learned at Keio. Players must keep up good condition to bring their ability into full play. And if they hit a slump they must try to get over it. By doing this they make up their characters. By playing sports we can get something which we can not gain by studying.

When it comes to the K-W game, it can be a most impressive memory, so I hope as a senior, the players play with student-like attitude, do everything in their powers and make good memory.

Mr. Hirooka says, "W-K game is famous all over the world and it has peculiar mood because the fans are separated in two in this country and it is like festival. So players should do their best. When I was a player of Waseda, Pro-ball was not popular yet and Big Six Univ. Baseball League had many fans. But today it is not so popular. W-K game must be fun and substantial. It is no exaggeration to say that decline and prosperity of amateur sports depend upon W-K game."

I am very happy to have lived my university life at Waseda, because I have gained many friends and seniors. When we go out into the world we feel secure by having friends and seniors. And I learned manners and courtesy while seniors in my university baseball life. I hope the players enjoy their university life and do their best in the coming W-K game."

Memories By Successive Captains

The K-W baseball match is well-known as one of the most traditional and famous games in the history of amateur sports not only in Japan but in foreign countries. It has the history for more than sixty years. There has been produced many brilliant players; for example, K. Nitta, S. Miyatake, S. Kawase, N. Ohshima, K. Tokumaru, S. Sasaki and so forth. All they wish is that the Tokyo Six University Baseball League would continue for ever and Keio team would keep on strong one.

We first interviewed Mr. S. League was reopened.

Next, we interviewed Mr. Y. Oshima. He was a captain and a fastball pitcher and now is a well-known commentator of professional baseball.

He says, "Though the social circumstances were severe, Keio team was radiant with a series of victory. But there were three difficulties as follows;

1. The ground for exercise.
2. The food conditions.
3. The stadium for games.

As the ground at Hiyoshi was a potato field during the war-time, we managed to change the ground into a baseball field.

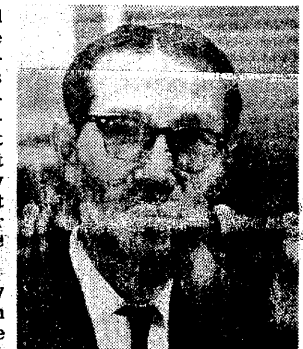

Second, we took great pains about food. We often went to the country for food. Third, though we had used the ground at Kamiigusa and at Hongo, and Korakuen stadium, we were permitted to use Jingu stadium on the 18 of November in 20 year of Showa. Next year the Tokyo Six University Baseball League gradually regained the popularity. Next we interviewed Mr. K. Tokumaru. He was one of the greatest sluggers Keio team ever produced.

He said, "I had a life of satisfaction when I played center fielder from 1946 to 1949, when there was an economic, political and social chaos. We could not use satisfactory sporting-goods at all and played with kitten-ball gloves in worn-out uniform and 'Chikatabi'."

In those days food conditions were extremely bad and the ground at Hiyoshi was a potato field. We often took a clattering and crowded train to hunt such food as rice, meat and soybean sauce, into not only prefectures neighbouring Tokyo but also Niigata prefecture. We put rucksacks on our backs when we went on playing tours.

We won the championship four times. In Waseda team was Mr. Ishii, a slugger, who is now a manager of his mother team. We had to admit that our foe played respectably. Every season Waseda and our team, Keio, competed for the championship with each other, and the champion flag repeated to and fro between the two. Despite miserable establishment, Student Baseball was catching a greater popularity. So as to regain a good popularity, Waseda and our team, Keio, must become much stronger and must compete for the championship every season. I am sure. Of course our training was bitterly severe. We ought to take in the teaching of seniors and Spartan trainings which are necessary in order to become a strong team."

Nobuo Ohshima

Next year Keio team held the second rank in spring and won the championship in autumn. In the 27 year of Showa, it gained continuous championship through two seasons. Mr. S. Sasaki entered Keio at that time.

He said, "In 1952, I entered Keio University and came to be a member of Keio baseball team with Fujita, the 'Unlucky Ace'."

Our most impressive game was the last one of our college life, autumn Keio-Waseda baseball the Autumn Keio-Waseda baseball series in 1955, when we lost the championship game which was our last chance as seniors. Fujita and I cried, for at last we had never experienced the deep emotion of the championship since when we won in 1952 we were only freshmen and not formal members of the baseball team.

Talking as a baseball commentator, I praise all the students that always do their best plays with earnest devotion even though they know their playing will come to nothing in the future and I desire that pro-baseball players follow them.

In this autumn Keio-Waseda baseball series, one of the outfielders, Iishi stopped being a member of Keio baseball player, which I have regretted, but I hope he will become a good player of a pro-baseball team as much as student one. To everybody who intends to come to be a member of a pro-baseball team, I do advise that if the conditions are favorable but he can't hold a game as a formal member of the team, he should not become a member of that team, because he will be always on the bench and able nothing but waste his youthful age. For example, if a certain first or third baseman comes to be a member of Giants, pro-baseball team, the prospect which lies before him is not a bright one so long as Oh and Nagashima play actively.

Returning to the subject, I hope our Keio team wins this autumn Keio-Waseda baseball series, moreover, the championship of the Tokyo Six University Baseball Games. I am going to Jingu Stadium, if circumstances permit to cheer our team Keio.

M. Satoh; Pitcher No. 2
Senior in Political Science

His favorite pitching is side throw and fast ball. He has hardly had chance to take part in game because of Watanabe being so great. But in this season he has played an important part in the Keio team which has lacked Watanabe. His pitching throughout the Keio-Hosei game was very good.

T. Watanabe; Pitcher No. 3
Senior in Political Science
Graduate of Keio H.S.

He is bright and frank. It is not too much to say he is the best pitcher of the Tokyo Six University Baseball League. His dynamic pitching is famous for that perfect game in the Keio-Hosei baseball match this spring. Regrettably with his wounded foot, he could not appear early this season. But at present he is in good health. So we hope he will show all his pitching in the coming K-W game.

K. Morikawa; Pitcher No. 5
Junior in Literature
Graduate of Tohoku H.S.

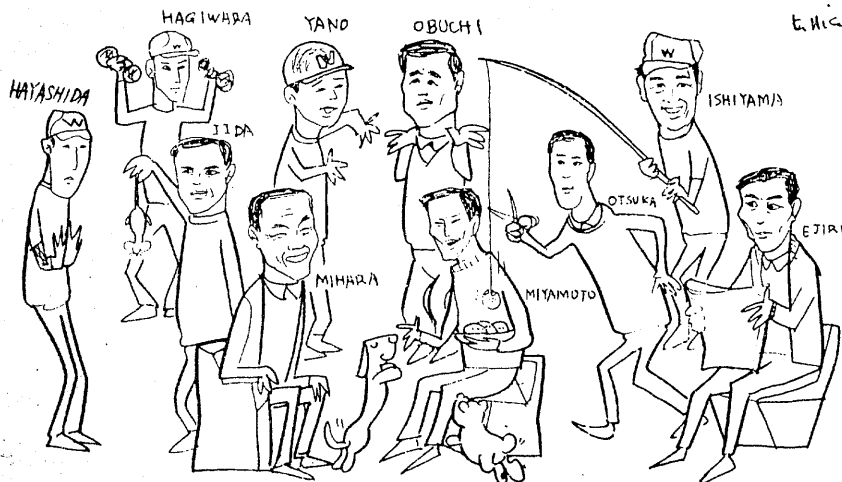

He is not a player with large physical assets, but his fighting spirit and boldness is remarkable. In his high school days he played an active part at Koh-shien baseball stadium as a pitcher, 4th batter and captain, and won the semifinals. He is expected to be a big pillar of Keio team next year.

M. Matsukata; Shortstop No. 17

I. Hirono; First Baseman No. 14
Junior in Political Science
Graduate of Tokushima Commercial H.S.

His giant frame makes him very suitable and reliable for the 4th batter. This serious-minded and self-possessed man says quietly, "It is popularly said that Keio players lack spirit. We play, doing our best at all times." He then added, "I want to win the K-W games by all means."

S. Ejiri; Pitcher No. 16

Senior in Political Economics
Graduate of Hitachi 1 H.S.

He has displayed fine pitching this season, and made a record for keeping the opposition pointless. His curve is excellent. With much fighting spirit, he says, "I regret very much that Watanabe, Kihara, Ishikawa, ace pitchers of Keio, Hosei, Rikkyo, respectively, could not appear early in the fall season." It is a pleasant thing that he will compete finely with Watanabe in coming K-W games.

Y. Otsuka; Catcher No. 6

Junior in Education
Graduate of Naniwa Commercial H.S.

Though his position is catcher, his batting is very good. His catching is better this season and he has helped Waseda's pitchers by his good catching. Junior in Literature
Graduate of Kofu H.S.

He is a swift player, fast runner and fine fielder. He is frank and jolly. He says "I am not in top condition, but I am proud to attend K-W baseball match." His only weak point is that sometimes he misses his chance when the ball comes his way.

The members of Keio team

T. Morioka; Third Baseman No. 21
Senior in Political Science
Graduate of Numazu Eastern H.S.

The tallest man of the Keio team, he is a powerful batter. He is expected to play an active part in K-W baseball game as he says, "I'll do my best in this, my last K-W game."

H. Ohta; Left Fielder No. 12

Let's Cheer For Glorious Championship

Both Rooters Very Amusing

Mie Hama

I am very sorry but I have never been to Jingu Stadium to see the K-W Baseball Games. Of course I often see them on television. I think the students-rooters in the Games are very amusing. If I have a chance I want to go to see it at the Stadium.

Anyhow I like baseball itself without discrimination of college and professional one. Among pro-ball players I like a pitcher, Murayama for a long time.

About Keio and Waseda I cannot tell which university I like better. I do not like a person or make friends only because of one's school career. It does not matter which university or high-school one graduated from. It is not inner thing but superficial one. I think the problem is one's personality.

As for Keio University, "Keio Character" has something peculiar as we call them "Keio Boys" who much appears like sons of good families. About University students I have a lot to say what I feel and want to say, but I am not worth doing so because it applies also to me.

Sure of Waseda's Victory

his fresh and peculiar Ieyasu enjoys a great reputation of rate. There is a young, genuine, and naive figure of a youth in his Ieyasu.

Indeed he has changed the image of Shogun Ieyasu popularly held for a long time. He originated a new type of Ieyasu in this play. He is an earnest actor and devotes himself to his part so much that it seems sometimes that he actually turns into his part.

While he is a nice actor as I said, he is a serious senior student of Waseda Univ. He belongs to the faculty of literature and makes a special study of theoretical performance. He is very fond of almost all kinds of sports and plays some of them, for example, basket-ball, himself. Of course he likes baseball games too and kindly answered us about K-W matches as follows:

In blue jeans and rough sweater, this tall and sturdy looking man smiled at us brightly, making us feel at home. His frank way of talking gave us a fresh and bright impression and soon we felt at home in his peculiar world where we found ourselves. As you know, Kinya Kitaoji is a hopeful active actor in young age. He now plays the part of Ieyasu Tokugawa, a hero of the Sengoku Period (the age of civil wars), in T.V. play, Ieyasu Tokugawa, which is the best seller novel by Sohachi Yamaoka, and he has also performed wonderfully as the young prince of Heidelberg at the Nissei Theatre. In particular,

"Of course I am an enthusiastic fan of Waseda and watch the K-W games on T.V. without fail. I like the Waseda school colour so much and the chat with my school friends is one of the most pleasant things in my life. To my regret, however, I am so busy in my business that I have no time to go to the Jingu Stadium. In fact I have never experienced the excitement there as one of the Waseda students. So if possible I hope that I will go there and cheer on Waseda teams with my friends at the top of my voice. I am sure that in this season Waseda will enjoy the winning of K-W matches again."

Keio Victory on T.V.

Eiko Taki

Eiko Taki is fond of skiing, skating, knitting, reading and music. However, her favorite past-time is watching baseball games. Of the professional baseball teams, she favors "Giants" and often goes to watch the games.

In her childhood, her house was situated within easy reach of Jingu Baseball Stadium.

Accordingly, it is needless to say that she could hear the enthusiastic cheers of both Keio and Waseda rooters without going to the stadium.

She says that she always wished to go to the games, but the opportunity was not hers. Because her occupation kept her busy, the best she could do was to watch on television. She likes Rikkyo Univ for Mr. Nagashima, who is called Mr. Giants, graduated from this Univ but of course she cheers for Keio at the games. Eiko Taki is a fan of Motoji Fujita, a player of the Giants and O.B.

of Keio Univ. She loves his gentleness and frankness both of which were brought out at Keio Univ. She says that she knows Keio students from Waseda students by their smartness and style. Finally she said to us, "If possible, I certainly wish to enjoy this year's Keio-Waseda games among the students."

Our Waseda!

Defeat Keio Again

Bonny Jacks

We all graduated from Waseda University. Three of us and seriously present.

After the W-K baseball match in '62. When we were students, Waseda men go to Shinjuku to we played an active part in celebrate loudly on the streets Wagner Society, Chorus club of Waseda University and of course Wagner member sang in the dome of Shinjuku station or on the sidewalks. In those days we an episode as for Toru Mori could do that at night after the who belonged to Waseda base-W-K baseball match. But these ball club. I was the same class days it is very difficult to do with him. That class was set such things, for the streets are up specially for students who very crowded with traffic and people could not get foreign language people are not so easy-going as remarks. I remember that Mori fore.

was not present even in that Whenever we went to Jingu class. I think he became en-Baseball Stadium to cheer, we enthusiastic in baseball exercise. were impressed that Keio's cheering section was more vivid than Waseda's. This spring we went to Jingu Stadium to cheer the Waseda team, and Ejiri made a splendid pitch. The stadium was very crowded and the attendants in charge would not permit us to enter, but we managed to squeeze in partly and enjoyed the match very much. We did not expect that Waseda would win a victory this spring. If Waseda nine was said beforehand of a victory, they could not win the championship, we thought. We expect Waseda will win the championship this autumn and defeat our opponent Keio again. (Bonny Jacks, chorus group, who are very famous for the charming harmony)

Hope, Regain Championship

Yoshiko Sakuma

We interviewed at Toei Movie Studios on the outskirts of Tokyo, Yoshiko Sakuma, one of Japan's outstanding movie actress, about the K-W baseball match in her school days. She answered our questions cheerfully.

"I didn't like or understand baseball so much. Once, in high school days, I went to the K-W baseball match and was very much excited because of the enthusiastic cheering and lively action of both teams. Then I became a fan of both teams. In those days it was more difficult to get an entrance ticket to the K-W baseball match. In spite of this, fortunately, I often got ticket to see the game and joined in the cheering. I don't remember clearly the names of the players who were active in the K-W baseball game but one name I recall is Moroki.

Besides the K-W baseball match I enjoyed the Rikkyo-Keio baseball game, because among the Rikkyo nine were Nagashima, Sugiura, Osawa—star players in professional baseball now.

At present, since my brother attends Keio University, Hiyoshi Campus, and often tells me about how wonderful the atmosphere is and how regrettable it was that Keio was defeated by Waseda, I have now become a Keio fan without realizing it. I am sorry that nowadays I have no chance to attend and cheer since I have little free time.

This spring Keio lost the championship at a crucial moment. But this autumn I hope and believe the Keio nine will defeat the Waseda nine to regain the Championship."

Last we asked her impression of the Keio Boy, and she told us, laughingly, as follows: "The Keio Boy never make a bad impression on people and generally behave as gentleman. I hope such fine characteristics never leave the Keio Boy."

Atmosphere Very Enchanting

Tomoko Ogawa

I'm little fond of seeing baseball game, and yet the Keio-Waseda Baseball Match is an exception. I have sometimes watched the television of the match. I think by my own judgement the technic of the student baseball including the Keio-Waseda Baseball Match is inferior to that of the professional baseball. But the K-W Baseball Match has surely another interest which the professional baseball game never has. Therefore it's wonderful to see not only the game but the view that students of both universities grow excited.

After the game the students make a fuss over the victory on the Ginza or Shinjuku. Every so often it seems to me that such behaviour is beyond the extent of student sphere. But if I were in their place, I'd certainly join the victorious parade. Now I do long to be once in the atmosphere of the parade.

At any rate, what the K-W Baseball Match has enchants my heart. So I hope the players and rooters of both teams do their best whether they win the victory or not. I envy the students of Keio and Waseda Universities enjoying their youthful lives.

A NAME OF AN AIM

Reading as "Kangyo", these Japanese ideographs originally connoted "the promotion of industry and trade" but are no longer in current usage. Their significance has thus been lost, except to the thousands of businessmen at home and abroad who associate it with "Nippon Kangyo"—their bank in Japan. The Nippon Kangyo Bank, through its efficient foreign and domestic services, fully meets the purpose for which it was founded in 1897—the promotion of industry and trade.

Our Trophy From K-W

The K-W baseball series is a baseball match. When we the hope of all Keio students. Recently, the Keio baseball team's remarkable solidness gives more expectation to Keio students. The K-W baseball series is one of the most significant events for Keio students. You know that there are grand events of the year under the auspices of Keio; however, can you find any other events except this event which makes Keio's twenty thousand bloods stir so violently? You know there are few chances for Keio students to be positively conscious of other universities except for this event.

Now, we must examine what we have gained from this significant event, the K-W baseball series. I believe this game is very important one for us.

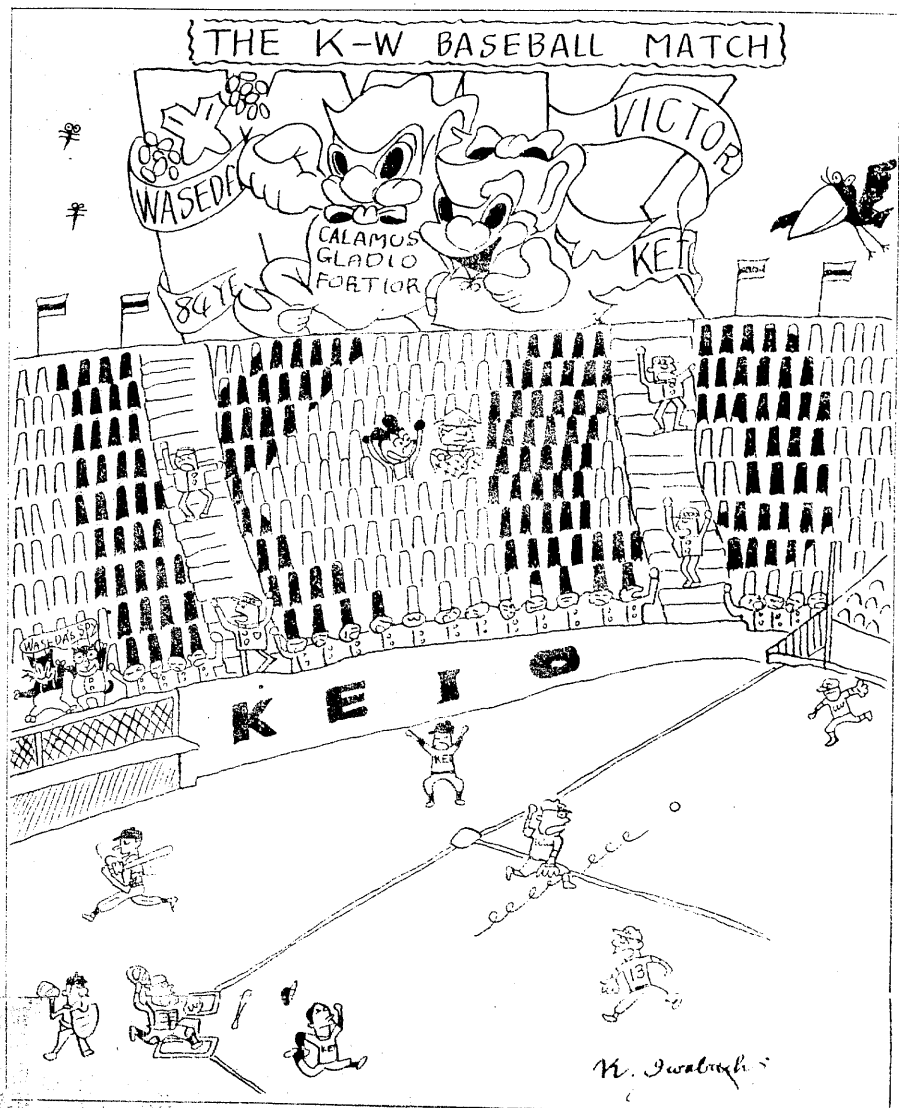

In the early morning of the K-W baseball series, we find without failure several Waseda students with their caps, so-called "Zabuton Boh" on their head. In the present time, there is not so strong an intercollegiate consciousness between Keio and Waseda as in former times; yet there is no denying the fact that there is still very much an intercollegiate consciousness between the two. Waseda reaches the climax, we Keio's badge and 'the Ear of Rice', Waseda's badge. The figure of Waseda—a great K-W line of rosters on the mass of Waseda students; at outside of the Jingu Stadium the same time, we come to is not in a special movement have a new understanding of before the play-ball of the K-W Our Alma Mater, Keio Gijuku.

At the Jingu Stadium filled with a roar of the brass bands and with a shout of joy, and where the white uniforms and the grey ones are fighting in good spirits, and where the Keio's great tricolored flag and Waseda's mighty brown flag is fluttering, the cheering competition of the K-W match perfectly divides fifty thousand hearts into two different ones.

The strong consciousness of the opposite university may mean a birth of deeper love to own Alma Mater. It seems to me that all the spirits of both Keio's and Waseda's rooters are perfectly occupied by this love now. At the former line, I said that the K-W baseball series was one of the most significant events for Keio Students.

Now, I must answer to the former question—what we have gained from this significant event. Here, I dare insist that through the K-W baseball series, we, Keio students are able to gain their sole chance to have a new understanding of our Alma Mater, Keio Gijuku. Can we find any other chance to have this understanding in our everyday conduct except this special event?

Isn't it always our Alma Mater, Keio Gijuku that occupies us, Keio students even when we were defeated unfortunately by Waseda, and of course when we won a great victory in the K-W baseball match? (K. Iwabuchi)

Words From Editors

During the Tokyo Olympic Games in October, however, we the members of the Mita Campus have nothing to do with it and we run about actively, taking photographs, advertisements and interviews. Now every thing is over. All of the Hiyoshi members of the Mita Campus have done well. I offer my sincere thanks to our Junior Board members and the Staffs of Tokyo News for helping us.

Having completed my part of this special edition, I have had the same joy that I had in the end of the examination of the University on September 30. During that examination in the end of September, our room, "Mita Campus" at the Hiyoshi was quite in stillness; however now we are able to find a former activity in our room. What has given us such an activity? Of course, we know that this special edition has given it to us. Now, we have a new decision that we must make more progress on the base of this work.
